

How do you choose the best grass species for your region?

Most states have turfgrass selection guidelines to help homeowners and professionals choose the best grass species for their region and needs. State cooperative extension sites and county extension educator offices are excellent sources of information for turfgrass species selection.

Find your State Cooperative Extension office.

Our Grass Roots Web site is loaded with more great information for you!