

Which grass provides more food to people than any other crop?

The cereal crop grasses wheat, rice and corn provide more than one-half of the calories consumed by humans. Wheat and rice provide most of those calories, as a significant portion of corn is used for animal feed and ethanol production.

Our Grass Roots Web site is loaded with more great information for you!